

Amendments to the Specification:

The specification was originally submitted electronically. The electronic program inserted some paragraph numbers where they were not intended and inserted extraneous characters in some equations and tables. The Examiner has suggested that Applicants move several paragraphs from the Detailed Description to the Background. In a Preliminary Amendment received January 5, 2004, an error in a patent Number was corrected. A substitute specification is attached, in which a) the extraneous characters have been removed, b) unintended paragraph numbering has been corrected, and c) paragraphs (that were numbered [0014] through [0019] as electronically filed but were intended to be only three paragraphs) have been moved into the Background section and have been made paragraphs [006] through [008] (in the new paragraph numbering). No substantive changes have been made and no new matter has been added. The correct Patent Number (in what was paragraph [0015] and is now paragraph [007]) is shown. Only a clean copy of the specification is provided.
